Tom Sharkey and Bob Fitzsimmons won't meet in the ring again-at least not for some time. Their proposed match has been declared off. Sharkey and Fitz several weeks ago agreed to face each other in the arena and signed articles of agreement. They decided to let clubs put in their bids for the contest until last night. Only two offers were received, one from the Seaside Athletic Club, of Coney Island; the other from the Westchester Athletic Club, of Tuckahoe. The first agreed to give 60 per cent. of the gross receipts; the latter 67 per cent. They were to accept the best bid, according to the Tom O'Rourke, Sharkey, Julian and Fitzsimmons met at the Hotel Delavan to-day. Of course, the better bid on paper was that of the Tuckahoe club.

But O'Rourke argued that 60 per cent.
at Coney Island would be greater than per cent. at Westchester. Julian and Fitz could not see this, and a long wrangle followed. Neither side would give in, and Fitz ended the matter by calling everything off, as O'Rourke would not accept the larger bid.

Bam Harris resigned from his position as matchmaker of the Hercules Athletic Club after the conclusion of the battle between Matthews and Connolly last night. Harris resigned because the club made a kick on the amount of money he had offered the fighters, $1,000. The officials at first refused to give the fighters that amount of money before the fattle started, but finally consented to do so. Harris then became disgusted and handed in his resignation, saying than he hoped it, would be accepted.
